Biography/History

Ruth McCorkle, R.N., Ph.D., F.A.A.N., is internationally known as a leader in oncology nursing research and practice. She is Professor and former Director of the Center for Excellence in Chronic Illness Care. Additionally, she was chair of the Doctor of Nursing Science Program at Yale University, School of Nursing, New Haven, Connecticut, 1998-2004.

McCorkle was born in Johnson City, Tennessee, in 1941 to John Joseph and Margaret Ruth McCorkle. After receiving her diploma from Maryland General Hospital School of Nursing and an associates degree from Baltimore Junior College, Baltimore, Maryland, in the same year (1961), she went on to get her bachelor's in nursing from the University of Maryland Baltimore, Maryland (1972), and both the master's (1972) and doctorate (1975) from the University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa. McCorkle did post-master's studies at St. Christopher's Hospice, London, Care of Terminal Patients (1972) and at Ethel Percy Andrus Gerontology Center, University of Southern California, Psychosocial Aspects of Aging (1973). After graduating from Maryland General Hospital School of Nursing, McCorkle served as operating room staff nurse at Maryland General Hospital (1961-1963), and then at Women's Hospital (1963-1964) Baltimore, Maryland. From 1964-1966, she served as a second lieutenant and was promoted to captain in the United States Air Force Nurse Corps. She served on the nursing staff at Mather Air Force Base, Sacramento, California. Following her discharge, she was a staff nurse and nursing instructor in California, Washington and Iowa (1966-1970); her focus being medical and surgical nursing. From 1971 to 1975 McCorkle was employed as a psychiatric and oncology clinical nursing specialist and instructor at the School of Nursing, University of Iowa City, Iowa. In 1975 she assumed the position of Assistant Professor, Department of Community Health Care Systems, University of Washington, Seattle, Washington was appointed to the rank of Professor in 1985.

McCorkle's association with the University of Pennsylvania, School of Nursing, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania spanned from 1986 to 1998. Ten of these years were spent as the Director for the Center for Advancing Care in Serious Illness, and for two as Associate Director Cancer Control at the University of Pennsylvania Cancer Comprehensive Center. Additionally she held the position of the American Cancer Society Professor of Oncology, Philadelphia Division, from 1986 to 1995. Active on the research front, she was principal investigator for the following proposals: "A Prospective and Current Study of Spouse Bereavement," DHHS, Health Resources and Services Administration, Division of Nursing (1986-1988); "Center for Advancing in Serious Illness" (1995-00), National Institute of Nursing Research; "Implementation of an Oncology Certificate Program," American Cancer Society (1985); and co-Investigator for "Fatigue in Cancer Patients: An Exercise Intervention," with Johns Hopkins University, School of Nursing, Baltimore, Maryland (1997-1999); and "A Family Caregiver Education Program," Pennsylvania Cancer Control Program, Department of Health, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

McCorkle is a charter and board member of the Oncology Nursing Society, and board member of the International Psycho-Oncology Society. She was the first non-medical recipient of a National Cancer Institute, Institutional Research Training Grant thus paving the way for other non-medical fields to compete in securing these research funds. McCorkle served on the editorial board of the Journal of Palliative Care. She was elected fellow of the American Academy of Nursing (1979), and to the Institute of Medicine (1990). McCorkle is the author of numerous papers and book chapters. Her co-edited textbook, Cancer Nursing won the American Nurses Association Book of the Year Award in 1996. In addition, she was recognized as Nurse Scientist of the year by the Council of Nurse Researchers, American Nurses Association (1993).

Scope and Contents

These papers span McCorkle's professional career (1961-1998) documenting her educational and military life as well as academic research, and experience with various professional organizations and institutions. Many of her awards and honors as a nursing leader are included. Photographs are also included.
