Abstract	Albert Cook Myers (1874-1960) was a Pennsylvania historian, who dedicated his life's work to the identification, study and organization of William Penn's published writings and personal papers. Beginning in 1910, after securing an endorsement from the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, he set out to publish: "The Complete Works of William Penn." All told, Myers devoted fifty years of his life to this project. Though his publication goals were never realized, he assembled a massive and notable body of information about William Penn. To complete his studies, Myers travelled abroad and throughout the United States. As a result of his efforts, he came to be regarded as an expert on the topic and often spoke publicly on the life and times of William Penn. The Albert Cook Myers research collection of William Penn materials contains the information gathered by Myers in his pursuit to thoroughly research and publish a volume documenting the complete writings of William Penn. Researchers will find Myers' notes, transcriptions, photocopies of documents, newspaper clippings, various author articles, first editions and other early editions of Penn's works, picture postcards of places related to Penn, and photos and original manuscript material. The bulk of the collection is "The Manuscript" series, which focuses on Myer's work on Penn's own writings. Researchers should be aware that the bulk of the collection is Myers' notes and only a small portion is original manuscript material related to Penn. The collection spans the dates of 1645 to 1960, however, the bulk of the material was collected and created by Myers from 1910 to 1960.

Biography/History

Albert Cook Myers (1874-1960) was a Pennsylvania historian, who dedicated his life's work to the identification, study and organization of William Penn's published writings and personal papers. Beginning in 1910, after securing an endorsement from the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, he set out to publish: "The Complete Works of William Penn." All told, Myers devoted fifty years of his life to this project. Though his publication goals were never realized, he assembled a massive and notable body of information about William Penn, which included transcriptions of original documents found in the United States and England, research notes, first and other early original editions of Penn's published works, and some original manuscript material as well. To complete his studies, Myers travelled abroad and throughout the United States. As a result of his efforts, he came to be regarded as an expert on the topic and often spoke publicly on the life and times of William Penn.

Myers was born in 1874 in York Springs, Pennsylvania. He was a devoted Quaker. He attended Martin Academy and Swarthmore College, earning his bachelor's and master's degrees from Swarthmore in 1898 and 1901, respectively. He obtained further graduate education from the Universities of Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Harvard. Later, in 1932, he was awarded an honorary doctorate from Franklin and Marshal College in Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

Though he was best known for his work on the Penn papers project, throughout his life, Myers was involved in many other historical pursuits of significance. Early in his career, he served as history editor for the publication, The Literary Era, and he also authored and/or edited several books on early American and Pennsylvania history. They include, Immigration of the Irish Quakers into Pennsylvania, 1902;

Sally Wister's Journal, 1902; Quaker Arrivals at Philadelphia, 1902; Memoir of Gilbert Cope, 1929; William Penn's Early Life in Brief, 1944-1974, 1937; and several others.

Myers was also involved in various capacities with the Jamestown Exposition in 1907, the Pennsylvania State Historical Commission, Pennsylvania Commission on School History Text Books, Philadelphia Mayor's Historical Commission, and the Sesquicentennial Celebration. He was a member and chairman of the Historical Commission of Valley Forge Park from 1923 to 1935, and in 1932, directed the William Penn Commemoration. He was president of Friends Historical Society of England and a member of the Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Societies. During World War I, he served as officer of the War Camp Community Service in Philadelphia, organizing historical walks through Philadelphia and receptions at the Historical Society of Pennsylvania for servicemen.

Albert Cook Myers died on April 1, 1960. He never married.

Scope and Contents

The Albert Cook Myers research collection of William Penn materials contains the information gathered by Myers in his pursuit to thoroughly research and publish a volume documenting the complete writings of William Penn. Researchers will find Myers' notes, transcriptions, photocopies of documents, newspaper clippings, various articles, first editions and other early editions of Penn's works, picture postcards of places related to Penn, and photos and original manuscript material. The bulk of the collection is "The Manuscript" series, which focuses on Myer's work on Penn's own writings. Researchers should be aware that the bulk of the collection is Myers' notes and only a small portion is original manuscript material related to Penn. The collection spans the dates of 1645 to 1960, however, the bulk of the material was collected and created by Myers from 1910 to 1960.

The Albert Cook Myers research collection of William Penn consists of research conducted by Albert Cook Myers for an intended definitive edition of the works of William Penn. Myers proposed to include all of Penn's published works and all the surviving letters in order to supplant other "meagre and antiquated" published editions. Over time, he added the task of writing a biography to his already ambitious plan. For nearly fifty years, Myers researched and collected information, copies of original manuscripts and works, and organized his research for the eventual writing of the edition. The writing of the volume never occurred.

This collection is arranged into the following series: "The Manuscript," "The Biographical notes," "Catalogues and bibliographies," "Printed works by William Penn," "Tracts attributed to William Penn," "Albert Cook Myers and the Complete Works," "Collections of materials related to William Penn," "The Irish Diary," "Research regarding Indians," Research regarding ships on the Delaware, ship captains, and passengers," "Research regarding English Quakers," and "Research regarding non-Quakers." For more details on each series please see the series scope notes.

At the time of donation to the Chester County Historical Society, Albert Cook Myers had organized the collection into 196 volumes of transcripts, photostats, printed material and notes pertaining to the life and time of William Penn. Because the organization of the collection was developed and used by Myers himself, the volume number scheme and folder titles set forth by Myers have been maintained. Spelling, date expressions, capitalization, abbreviations, and title format were all adhered to as closely as possible to retain the structure set forth by Myers. In further respect to Myers' organization, an existing index (located in box 72) was used extensively in the processing of this collection.

In order for this collection to be used most effectively, researchers should be aware of several factors. First, researchers should be aware that the bulk of this collection consists of copies or transcriptions of original documents which are housed in England, Ireland, Europe and the United States in both repositories of primary sources or private collections. Throughout the collection, dates have been maintained as written on documents due to the Quaker calendar differing from the standard calendar until 1753. Myers' note taking methodology was unique and as a result there is extensive duplication in this collection. Researchers will probably need to look at many series in order to gain the most complete picture. According to project archivist, Carol Grigson, in 1998 who worked on other Myers' collections, "when Myers took notes, he never made a single copy. In fact, he always had carbon paper and note tablets enabling him to take notes in triplicate or quadruplicate. What this means for the user of this collection is that his notes show up in different forms and in different places. Sometimes there are just folders of stray notes, with no discernible organization. From this disorganized state, many stages exist in between. His ultimate form of organization, short of a finished manuscript is labeled 'notes pasted to sheets.' To reach this state, Myers sorted out all his information, reread everything according to his outline and put them together in a form he would use to produce a manuscript. He then went one step further and pasted these notes to sheets of paper which were then usually placed in binder notebooks. In the mind of Myers, this research was complete and ready for the final writing."

This collection will be of use to William Penn scholars; Quaker scholars; religious scholars; genealogists; those interested in the early history of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and New Jersey and areas within each state; and those interested in nautical history.

Processing Information note

The processing of this collection was made possible through generous funding from The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, administered through the Council on Library and Information Resources' "Cataloging Hidden Special Collections and Archives" Project.

This collection was minimally processed in 2009-2011, as part of an experimental project conducted under the auspices of the Philadelphia Area Consortium of Special Collections Libraries to help eliminate processing backlog in Philadelphia repositories. A minimally processed collection is one processed at a less intensive rate than traditionally thought necessary to make a collection ready for use by researchers. When citing sources from this collection, researchers are advised to defer to folder titles provided in the finding aid rather than those provided on the physical folder.

Employing processing strategies outlined in Mark Greene's and Dennis Meissner's 2005 article, More Product, Less Process: Revamping Traditional Processing Approaches to Deal With Late 20th-Century Collections, the project team tested the limits of minimal processing on collections of all types and ages, in 23 Philadelphia area repositories. A primary goal of the project, the team processed at an average rate of 2-3 hours per linear foot of records, a fraction of the time ordinarily reserved for the arrangement and description of collections. Among other time saving strategies, the project team did not extensively review the content of the collections, replace acidic folders or complete any preservation work.

Series I. The Manuscript

Collection Inventory

Series I. The Manuscript, Bulk, 1910-1960 1645-1960 (Bulk, 1910-1960) .

Scope and Contents note

The core of the collection is contained in a group of 58 volumes (I-XLVIII A) of Myers' notes entitled "The Manuscript." These volumes make up 34 boxes of the collection. The material in these volumes is arranged in chronological order, 1660 to 1712, and consists of material written by Penn, including transcripts, photocopies, letters, tracts, petitions, commissions, wills, etc. Included are some early editions of Penn's published works.

The majority of the transcripts are typed, however, some are handwritten. The transcripts may, but do not always, include the source and location of the original document. Researchers will find that the works of William Penn have been heavily annotated by Myers

Also included is the Addenda to the Manuscript which includes transcripts, photographs and notes, dating from 1671 to 1732.

This series will provide an excellent starting point for researchers because folder titles are fairly descriptive. After searching this series, it is recommended that researchers also examine the "Biographical notes" and "Catalogues and bibliographies," series.

Series II. Biographical notes, Bulk, 1910-1960 1683-1960 (Bulk, 1910-1960) .

Scope and Contents note

"Biographical notes" includes research conducted by Myers in his efforts to write a biography of William Penn. The series is organized into six subseries, "Penn Ancestry and Kindred;" "Jasper family;" "William Penn, his travels, his contemporaries, and his descendents;" "Itinerary and chronology of William Penn;" "Others," and "Index to the biographical notes of William Penn (en masses)." In addition to information about family and events in Penn's life, Myers collected whatever data he could about places connected with William Penn, including photographs, wherever possible, and whatever biographical and genealogical information he could discover about people connected with William Penn.

"Penn Ancestry and Kindred" follows a chronological order, beginning with the Penn genealogy, Penn's maternal and paternal grandparents, and his parents. Included is information regarding Penn Lodge in

Series II. Biographical notes

Minety, Minety Church, and Bristol. Also included is information on families, such as the Crispin family and the Blackfan family, as well as information on specific individuals such as James Bradshaw, the Lady Martha Dupant Joice, and Richard Harman, to name only a few.

William Penn's mother was Margaret Jasper before her marriage to Sir William Penn. The "Jasper family" series includes notes and records regarding the Jasper family as a whole, the estate of John Jasper, and information regarding several churches, including the Dutch Church of Austin Friars and the Church of St. Olave, both in London.

"William Penn, his travels, his contemporaries, and his descendents" includes extensive research on William Penn, his wives, his children, and his homes. This series is arranged chronologically. Of particular interest may be the files concerning Penn's voyage on the Welcome, Pennsbury, and Pennsylvania Castle and the disposition of its contents in 1916. Included is information regarding known portraits of Penn family members.

The "Itinerary and chronology of William Penn" appears to be a daily chronological listing of William Penn's known itinerary from 1644 to 1718. Information in these folders is often scant, with weeks left completely blank.

"Others" includes biographical research on contemporaries of William Penn as well as those who may have influenced his thinking, particularly in regards to Quakerism. There are biographical notes regarding Penn's lawyers and agents, as well as his secretaries and stewards. William Penn lawyers and agents is composed of one folder that contains Myers' notes and correspondence on the various lawyers and agents of William Penn. Robert West appears to be the main focus of these notes. A William and Mary College Quarterly historical magazine from January, 1924 is also included. Information regarding Penn's secretaries and stewards included genealogical tables and notes, transcripts of meetings, and letters. There is a significant amount of biographical material, however, the main focus of the notes appear to be in regards to the secretaries and stewards involvement and work with William Penn. These files may also contain newspaper clippings and images. Some individuals researched include Robert Barclay, governor of the East Jersey colony in North America during the 1680s; Major John Fenwick, proprietor of West New Jersey; Philip Ford, agent; Benjamin Furly, agent; Thomas Gilpin, Quaker; John Jeffries; George Keith, Surveyor-General; Tobias Ludwig Kolhasius, German Quaker; William Lickford; Patrick Logan, father of James Logan; James Neville; Thomas Rudyard, deputy-governor of East New Jersey; John South; Richard Stevens; and Robert Webb, Marshall of the Court of Vice Admiralty for Pennsylvania, the lower counties and West Jersey. Significant research was conducted regarding James Logan. Files on James Logan include photographs of portraits, biographical material, information regarding Stenton, newspaper clippings, and copies of some of Logan's letters. Researchers should be aware that a bulk of the material regarding Logan is notes, as well as some correspondence to Myers relating to his research. Information regarding Mark Swanner (Markus Schwaner), a German Quaker and member of the staff of George Fox, includes largely biographical and genealogical notes, but also photocopies of books covers, and information about Zattau. Researchers should note that some of the Swanner material is in German. In addition, there is biographical information regarding William Penn's physicians, Dr. Mathews and Dr. Waldern.

This series is most valuable because it contains the results of Myers' search for biographical information about Penn and the Penn family, which he almost invariably posted in these volumes with references to the sources, which included both standard and obscure printed works and manuscripts of Penn's contemporaries.

Series III. Catalogues and bibliographies.Scope and Contents note

In his efforts to gain intellectual control over the works of William Penn as well as works and documentation of other Quakers, Myers both created and collected catalogues and bibliographies. This series is divided into five subseries: "Catalogue of William Penn's books," "Catalogue of Penn's letters and other papers," "English Quaker records," "Joseph Smith's Descriptive Catalogue of Friends' Books," and "Bibliography of Penn biographers and editions of Penn's works."

The "Catalogue of William Penn's books," is purely bibliographic notes, but covers the writings of Penn from 1660 to 1712. This series, arranged chronologically, includes references to William Penn's works from other published volumes and catalogs. Before beginning their perusal of this series, researchers should consult the first folder which is titled "Directions for Use of Catalogue." This series should prove helpful as a first step for researchers interested in a complete bibliography. Those interested in Penn's books should also see the series, "Printed works by Penn," as well as the subseries "Joseph Smith's Descriptive Catalogue of Friends' Books" within this series.

The "Catalogue of Penn's letters and other papers" is a list of materials that Myers knew existed and where those materials were located. Myers traveled throughout England, Ireland, Europe and the United States and researched in libraries and private collections. There is no actual manuscript material included in this series. This series also includes handwriting samples of William Penn and his associates, as well as some analysis of handwriting, particularly of Penn's associates. Included also in this series is correspondence that appears to be regarding other Penn family members and alleged Penn family members. Research on the validity of their claims is documented via clippings, genealogical tables, post cards, and notes.

"English Quaker records," includes notes, correspondence, photocopies of catalogs, a large number of newspaper clippings, and some photographs regarding the existence, location, and sources of Quaker manuscript material. No actual manuscript material is included in this series. The series is largely arranged by county and covers England and Ireland. Also included is a catalog of books that were written by Quakers. This series may prove to be extremely valuable to Quaker scholars as it is a fairly comprehensive guide to books by and manuscript collections of English Quakers. For more material on English Quakers please see the "Research on English Quakers" series.

The "Joseph Smith's Descriptive Catalogue of Friends' Books" is a listing of William Penn's works. It includes an index and four parts. Researchers should also see "Catalogue of William Penn's books" which could be used in conjunction with this series for a definitive bibliography.

Myers was also interested in other biographers of Penn and their works. The "Bibliography of Penn biographers and editions of Penn's works" contains information on the biographies of William Penn. It is a listing of the biographies and notes on the biographers. It includes information on the books as well as the sources that these biographers used for their research. Also present is information on the printing and publishing of Penn's works. No original material by Penn, however, is included.

Taken as a whole, this series provides a great deal of information for a prospective Penn scholar. Locations of materials, sources of information and lists of resources are already compiled and available.

Series VI. Albert Cook Myers and the Complete Works

Series VI. Albert Cook Myers and the Complete Works.

Scope and Contents note

The series "Albert Cook Myers and the Complete Works" documents Myers' efforts and progress as he conducted his research. Included in this series are the outline and approval for the project, letters of introduction for Myers as he traveled to England and Europe, newspaper clippings about Myers and the project, and information about the Bi-Centenary of William Penn's death, held in 1918.

The outline and approval for the William Penn Volumes appears to be a list of financial backers for his research. This material essentially documents the achievability of his project. The letters of introduction are arranged chronologically and were copied by Myers for his own records. The newspapers clippings are organized into four volumes and document Myers and his work on the project. This series includes two volumes on the commemoration of the bi-centenary of the death of William Penn, both of which date from 1917 to 1918.

This series will prove valuable to researchers interested in historiography, Albert Cook Myers, and the study of William Penn biographers.

Series VII. Collections of materials related to William Penn

Series VII. Collections of materials related to William Penn.Scope and Contents note

In his efforts to research all aspects of Penn's life and connections, Myers conducted research in collections beyond those belonging to William Penn. This series, "Collections of materials related to William Penn," includes correspondence, biographical notes, transcripts, photocopies and photographs of manuscripts, and note cards. The series is arranged alphabetically by collection name.

The Dickinson-Logan-Luxmoore papers includes typed transcripts of letters of James Logan, Jonathan Dickinson, etc. These papers are owned by Mrs. Edward Luxmoore (née Logan) of England. Included also are letters Myers wrote to Mrs. Luxmoore in regards to the examination of her papers.

The Philip Ford's Penn Accounts, 1672-1694 include photocopies and photographs of manuscripts, especially financial documents. These papers are largely regarding land in Pennsylvania and document the conflict between Penn and Ford which originated when Penn signed a deed transferring Pennsylvania to Ford, Penn's business manager, who demanded rent exceeding Penn's ability to pay. After Ford's death in 1702, his wife, Bridget, undertook the collection of rents and Penn was sent to debtor's prison. However, the Crown decreased the amount of Penn's debt and he was able to pay it. The originals of these documents appear to be housed at the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

William Hepworth Dixon (1821–1879) wrote William Penn: An historical biography, founded on family and state papers in 1852. The Hepworth Dixon papers consists of transcriptions of notes, letters and manuscripts presumably from a collection of the same name. It is unclear, however, where this collection is housed--there are collections of William Hepworth Dixon materials at UCLA, Penn State University and University of Chicago, but the known contents do not match the transcriptions contained in this collection. It is possible that these papers are not in a collection under Hepworth Dixon's name, but are references to materials unearthed by Hepworth Dixon in his research. Included in the material in Myer's collection are transcription of letters of Robert Black and Algernon Sydney, transcriptions and notes from letters of Venetia Digby and Mrs. Colepepper, and transcriptions of letters and manuscripts of the Colepepper and Springett families. The connection of the Colepepper family and Venetia Digby to the William Penn project is unclear.

Deborah Logan (1761-1839) was married to George Logan, grandson to James Logan. Deborah Logan spent a great deal of time researching and writing the history of early Pennsylvania and Philadelphia. In addition to her own history and the history of her husband's family, she is responsible for copying letters from the correspondence of James Logan and William Penn in order to make them more widely accessible. The material in this collection is transcriptions of originals housed at the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and the Library Company of Philadelphia. Her writings include biographical information on her family.

The McAllister material includes copies of Penn family letters as well as genealogical and biographical information on William Penn's family members compiled into four volumes. It is unclear who Agnes B. McAllister was, but the four volumes do not appear to be created by Myer's hand. It is possible that she was a secretary or a member of Myer's staff. There is little information in the first volume.

The William Sevel's [Sewel] Ms. Latin Letter-Book, 1676-1719 consists of four folders that contain Myers' bibliographical notes, a list of the letter-book's contents, photographs of pages in the book, and transcripts of letters to and from Sewel. William Sewel (1654–1720) was a Dutch-English Quaker historian who declined Penn's offer to serve at a Quaker school in Bristol, England.

James Steel's letterbook is housed in the Logan family papers (collection 379) at the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and includes letters to James Logan. Myers' material consists of an index to the letter book and photographs of the book--transcripts of letters are not included.

Miscellaneous papers includes photocopies of manuscripts, copies of catalogs, eleven copies of My Irish Diary and note cards regarding Myers' research. Documents that were copied include deeds, leases, and correspondence. Also included are card files of lists of material that Myers' has copied for his research as well as possibly material that he hoped to photocopy. There is a card catalog of the material housed at the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

Researchers interested in conducting their own research on the Penn and Logan families should consult this series as an excellent starting point. This material will answer few queries fully, but will provide researchers with directions in which to move their own research.

Series VIII. The Irish Diary

Series VIII. The Irish Diary.Scope and Contents note

William Penn's My Irish Diary (or My Irish Journal as it is more commonly known) was copied by Albert Cook Myers, according to an account in The Friend in 1913. This account states that Myers, "had the opportunity to copy the unpublished Irish diary of William Penn ... [which] he has extensively annotated and prepared for documentation," (Volume LXXXVI, March 27, 1913, page 288). It is unclear that Myers ever moved forward with the publishing as it was edited by Isabel Grubb and published in 1952.

My Irish Journal documents Penn's journey to and his travels throughout Ireland during the time period of September 1669 to August 1670. Myers' series "The Irish Diary," contains bibliographic notes, research notes and biographical notes, as well as some information regarding Penn's Irish estates. The bulk of this series consists of Myers' notes, some of which are very fragmented. The bibliographic research consists largely of note cards as well as a few tracings of signatures. In addition to the bulk of the notes are two folders of miscellaneous notes marked with queries and the research he did in response. The biographical notes are arranged alphabetically.

Series IX. Research regarding Indians.Scope and Contents note

"Research regarding Indians" includes Myers' notes, clippings, correspondences, bibliographic references, and images of Indian places and towns, Indian deeds, Indian chiefs and Playwicky Indian town. Research regarding Indian places contains notes and bibliographic information on the location of Indian place name material. Newspaper clippings are also present, but the bulk of this series is made up of Myers' notes. Research on Indians, generally, is composed almost entirely of Myers' notes and is arranged chronologically from 1630 until 1701. His notes indicate bibliographic references as to where to find quotes and sources of information regarding Indians. Indian deeds are documented via transcripts, notes, photographs and negative of original deeds dating from 1630 to 1717. Indian chiefs are documented with biographical information. The material regarding Indian chiefs is organized alphabetically. Finally the Playwicky Indian Town material contains bibliographic notes on the town, clippings and post cards compiled in two volumes. On June 23, 1683, William Penn purchased the land on which Playwicky Indian Town lay from Chief Tammany of the Unami Group of the Lenni Lenape or Delawares.

Researchers interested in early Native American history should consult this series.

Series X. Research regarding ships in the Delaware, ship captains, and passengers and supplies.
Scope and Contents note

The series "Research regarding ships in the Delaware, ship captains, and passengers and supplies," includes significant research conducted by Myers. According to The Friend in 1913, Myers "discovered the records of Penn's ship Welcome ... which were not believed by local historians to be in existence, [and] that he had also unearthed in Ireland the records of several other contemporary ships in which the first settlers in Pennsylvania crossed the ocean," (The Friend, Volume LXXXVI, February 27, 1913, page 288). It is presumed that much of the newly acquired information is included in this series.

Series X. Research regarding ships in the Delaware, ship captains, and pas...

This series contains Myers' notes and transcriptions concerning ships known to have arrived in the Delaware River from the British Isles from 1675 to 1695. Notes containing ship information is arranged alphabetically. There is no information about passengers in this segment of the series. It is important for researchers to know that a complete list of ships is not included in this series.

Myers also researched captains and other mariners of ships arriving in the Delaware River from 1675 to 1725. These lists, or groupings of notes, are arranged alphabetically by captain/mariner's name and include the ship they sailed and the general date of arrival in the Delaware River. Occasionally, there is some additional information, but for the most part, the only information contained is listed above. These records do not contain passenger lists.

The final aspect of travel from the British Isles to Philadelphia researched by Myers is ships' passengers and supplies arriving in the Delaware River from 1677 to 1682. A complete list of passengers does not exist, however, there are fragmented lists of passengers arriving as well as the ship on which they traveled. Genealogists may find this component of the collection to be of value. Information regarding supplies arriving in Philadelphia may be of interest to researchers interested in imports of British goods to the Colonies.

This series may be of interest to researchers interested in topic beyond William Penn. Maritime history, immigration, genealogy, and trade are all topics prevalent in this group of records.
